LISTEN! THAT IS MY TREASURE TOWER GUARD!
GUARDS... WHO WENT UP THERE?
ER... NO ONE DID!
TREASURE TOWER
LET US TAKE A LOOK!
HELP!
BALI, THE BUTLER, IS STEALING THE SULTAN'S TREASURE!
YOU WON'T GET ME!
OH, YEAH?
I'VE GOT A THREAD FROM HIS TURBAN!
L-LOOK, MERLIN!
THE BUTLER IS FLYING!
HEE HEE! THIS TURBAN MADE OUT OF THE FLYING CARPET THREAD WORKS FINE!

COME BACK HERE, RUG HEAD!
TUG!
ZIT!
ZIT!
ZIT!
ZIT!
LOOK, I'VE SET HIM SPINNING!
AND UNWINDING!
NOW I GET IT! HE SMUGGLED IN AN IMITATION OF MY FLYING CARPET INSIDE THE VACUUM BAG... AND TOOK THE REAL ONE OUT THE SAME WAY!
CRASH!
WELL, YOU CAN REWARD US NOW!
BUT I DON'T HAVE MY FLYING CARPET BACK YET!
YOU'LL HAVE TO WEAVE IT FOR ME!
YEEK! WEAVING FLYING CARPET THREAD IS MORE LIKE A COMBINATION JUGGLING-TRAPEZE ACT!
WHAT A FINALE!
The End

"Oh, Porky, I'm so glad you called," Petunia crooned into the telephone. "I wanted to invite you to the party next Saturday night at the country club. Its going to be a backward dance."

"What kind of a dance is that? Most people have enough trouble dancing forward," Porky laughed.

"Porky Pig. Stop your teasing," Petunia answered sharply. "You know perfectly well that a backward dance just means that the girls invite the boys for a change. Will you be my escort?" she added more sweetly.

"Sure, Petunia. You know I will. They always have good dinners at the country club," Porky replied, already dreaming of the big meal he was looking forward to eating.

"By the way, before I forget—the main entertainment of the evening will be a dance contest. Won't that be fun?" Petunia held her breath waiting for the explosion she knew this announcement would bring.

"Petunia! You tricked me. You know I can't dance. And I'm not going to learn, either!" Porky howled into the receiver.

"All right, Porky. But you will still be my escort, won't you?" Petunia pleaded, but with a sly gleam in her eye that fortunately, Porky could not see.

After Porky had said "yes" and hung up, Petunia put down her phone and got out her scissors and paste, and her typewriter and paper. "I'm glad I thought of this plan in plenty of time before the dance. If I hurry, Porky will get these lessons in the mail tomorrow," she hummed happily.

"These footstep patterns I got from the dance studio will be just perfect to teach Porky to dance," she nodded approvingly. "Now, I'll just cut off the name of the dance studio, like this," she sang as she snipped.

Then, Petunia got out her typewriter and pecked out a letter of information to send along with the sheets of paper printed with the footstep patterns.

The next morning when Porky opened his mail he was thrilled to find a special letter. "Sir," he read. "You have won a free home course in The Manly Art of Self Defense. Enclosed is the first and most important lesson: Fancy Footwork. Practice diligently, and you will soon be fast on your feet."

"Boy, oh, boy!" Porky beamed as he unrolled the sheets of footstep patterns. He started to practice then and there, and he practiced all week. By the night of the dance he knew all the footsteps by heart.

At the dance, Porky could talk of nothing but his lessons.

"Oh, Porky, it all sounds so interesting," Petunia praised him. "You never know when something like that will come in handy, either," she smiled.

When it came time for the dance contest, the master of ceremonies announced, "Will everyone please take places on the dance floor?" Before Porky knew what had happened, Petunia had pulled him out onto the floor. All around him, couples were twirling.

"Step together, step. One-two-three, slide," Porky chanted, as he watched their feet. "Hey, Petunia," he yelled, "I've just made a discovery. Those footstep patterns I've been learning all week could double for dance steps." He chuckled and spun Petunia around the floor.

"Porky, I sent you that letter," Petunia confessed. "They really were dancing lessons. All I did was change the name."

"That's okay, Petunia," Porky grinned. "I guess dancing really could be called the art of self defense," he added, deftly swinging Petunia around to avoid bumping into another couple.

CONGRATULATIONS!

SPRING COMICS LINE-UP FEATURES MERRY MIX OF FUN AND ADVENTURE

BRAND NEW!

From the Zodiak comes ZODY THE MOD ROB, a most remarkable humanized computer. To the amazement of his two teen-age friends, Zody is able to predict coming events . . . and he knows all the answers even before things happen! He's an astrological, terrestrial phenomenon, doing his thing right here on good old terra firma!

FRENCH LEAVE

Jody hears Mr. French is leaving and tells Cissy and Buffy the sad news. There can be only one reason, they conclude — Uncle Bill can't afford to keep him on! What do the kids do about it? You'll find out — to your enjoyment — when you read next month's FAMILY AFFAIR.

TARZAN AND THE FOREIGN LEGION

Based on the famous story by Edgar Rice Burroughs, this authentic adaptation is one that the legion of Tarzan fans won't want to miss in the next TARZAN OF THE APES.

TRUE WEIRD STORIES

You'll find these spellbinders in the next issue of RIPLEY'S BELIEVE IT OR NOT!

APRIL TITLES READY TO ROLL OFF PRESSES

More variety, more fun and adventure than ever — those are the Gold Keywords for the books we've planned for the new season. So sharpen your pencils for the checklist in your Comics Guide—a popular feature with our readers who want to know "what's up" with Gold Key Comics. .

UNSEEN HANDS

Strange captors lurk in the depths ready to seize the unfortunate victims who cross their watery domain. And the unlucky ones are Turok and Andar, in this suspense-filled issue of TUROK, SON OF STONE.

NOW ON SALE!

It's here — GOODBYE, MR. CHIPS, the Gold Key issue based on the great M-G-M motion picture.
